INTRODUCTION

Correspondence, records, and working files. Originally designed to survey and inventory all county government records, the survey finally included inventories of church records, manuscript collections, vital statistics, American imprints, and federal archives. Incorporates records of the Federal Writers Project for Missouri.

DONOR INFORMATION

The WPA Historical Records Survey was donated to the University of Missouri by the WPA through E.M. Basye on 24 September 1942 (Accession No. 1).

HISTORICAL SKETCH

The Historical Records Survey was created to inventory all county government records of each county in the United States. It was started in January 1936 as a part of the Federal Writers Project of the Works Progress Administration, one of the many government-sponsored projects created to provide employment during the Depression.

The survey had two purposes: to list manuscripts, church records, and public records in county offices in a reference volume for the use of county officials and the general public, and to locate, classify, and catalog all extant county and city records to make them more easily accessible to county officials, historians, and research workers.

There were field workers in each county and the City of St. Louis who inventoried the records on prescribed forms and forwarded them to the state office. County court records up to 1879 were transcribed for use in the state office.

The survey in Missouri became a separate unit of Federal Project No. 1 on 15 October 1936 and continued to operate as a part of the national project. By an act of Congress Federal Project No. 1 was abolished on 31 August 1939 and the Missouri project was converted into a state-wide, locally sponsored project under the administrative authority of B.M. Casteel, State Administrator, and the Director of the Professional and Service Division of the WPA.

In time the survey broadened to include inventories of church records, manuscript collections, women's organizations, vital statistics, American Imprints, federal archives, Civil Works Administration, defense, Negro education, and a space survey. The completed inventory of each county was to be published, one volume for each county. Due to the outbreak of World War II, volumes for only about one third of the counties in the United States were published.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The collection is divided into nine series:

Correspondence	f. 1-2048
Counties	f. 2049-21937
Essays	f. 21938-22038

Forms	f. 22039-22609
Instructions	f. 22610-22733
Lists	f. 22734-22966
Publications	f. 22967-23255
Reports	f. 23256-23866
Research Material and Notes	f. 23867-24282

Hereafter the Work Projects Administration will be abbreviated as WPA, and Historical Records Survey as HRS. With the exception of the Counties series, all of the series deal with the administrative aspects of the survey.

The Correspondence series consists of the administrative correspondence of the survey and its various projects. It is divided into the following subseries: American Imprints, Equipment and Supplies, Finance, General Administration, General Letters, Inventory of Church Records and History, Inventory of County Records and History, Personnel, Publications, Public Work Reserve, Reports (received and sent), Survey of Federal Archives, Survey of Manuscript Depositories, Survey of Women's Organizations, Transcription of County Court Records, Vital Statistics, and Miscellaneous.

The Counties series is the largest series and includes forms, essays, maps, photographs, newspapers, and floor plans produced during the survey. Remember that the survey only surveyed existing records and did not collect them. The survey is a snapshot of what records existed and where they were stored during the late 1930s. Perhaps the most valuable part of the Counties series is the verbatim transcription of the county court record

This series is arranged alphabetically by county. Each county is further subdivided into some or all of the following categories: buildings, church records, city records, county office records, general information, laws, lists, manuscripts, newspapers, paintings and statuary, maps and photographs, floor plans, publications, township records, and transcription of county court records.

In the buildings category there are forms on the buildings and offices wherein the records of the county are contained. There may also be information on the housing and care of the records.

The church records category contains the church records form, the deed record form, building forms for individual churches, historical sketches of individual churches, lists of churches and cemeteries, correction sheets, lists of pastors, lists of the dates of organization of early churches, lists of deed records, notebooks, essays on church schools, and lists of churches, active or defunct.

The city records category consists of volumes and unbound records forms and buildings forms. In those counties that have a city records division, the forms are for the most part of the records of city clerk, city assessor, city collector, and city police judge. This is not true of St. Louis County, which has a large number of city offices and forms for the records thereof.

County office records are arranged by office. These records use either volume forms or the unbound records forms or both. There may be essays describing the individual offices.

The general information category contains general descriptions of the county, bibliographies, lists of county newspapers, answers to county history questions, essays on topography, climate, geography, county government and offices, paleontology, geology, archaeology, early settlement, population, growth, development, ethnology, particular things in the counties such as parks and statues, relation of the county to national and state political systems; county government, folklore, clubs, highways, cities, points of interest, manufactures, public utilities, union labor and labor conditions, history of the courthouse, county history, railroads, banks, county organization, schools, county participation in the Civil War, and lists of early county officials.

The laws category contains lists of Missouri laws affecting each office of county government. The date the law was approved and the date from which it became effective are given, as well as page and section numbers. The laws refer to towns and cities, boundaries, territory attached, congressional apportionment, roads and bridges, academies, schools, agriculture, trespass, internal improvement fund, and the seat of justice.

The lists consists of lists of records, each entry giving type, name, date of record, and whether the record is in file boxes or in volumes. Ordinarily there is a list of the records for each of the county offices. At the beginning of the list the location of the records is given.

The manuscripts, newspapers, and painting and statuary categories consist of manuscript collection forms, individual manuscript forms, newspaper forms, paintings and statuary forms, volume forms, printed records forms, and newspapers and newspaper clippings.

The maps, photographs, and floor plans consists of map and photograph forms, floor plan drawings, maps, photographs and measurements of the offices. There is frequently material on housing and care of records.

The publications subcategory usually consists of one volume, Inventory of the County Archives, --- County, Missouri. Occasionally such publications as city directories are included.

The township records category is found in very few counties. When it is found, it consists of volume forms and unbound record forms covering the records of clerk and ex-officio assessor.

The transcription of county court records consists of a verbatim copy of the county court record from the first volume down through 1878. Many county transcriptions stopped before 1879 because WPA funding had ended. There are some gaps in the records either because the original was destroyed or the transcription is missing. These gaps are noted in the folder lists.

The Essays Series is made up of essays written during the survey and cover all areas of the survey. The Forms, Instructions, and Lists series are made up of items created for the administration of the survey.

The Publications Series includes publications growing out of various phases of the work of the HRS: manuals, guides, reports of services and accomplishments, general information on Missouri projects and laws relating to WPA work. Administrative reports make up the bulk of the Reports Series.

The Research Series primarily consists of notes with a few memos and maps. The bulk of the notes deal with the offices and functions of county government and Missouri statutes. These notes were possibly made by WPA field workers in an effort to understand the workings of county government and state law.
