Biographical Note:

The Dunlap family settled in Virginia in the 1700s and the family patriarch, James Carnachan Dunlap fought in the Revolutionary War with the 6th Pennsylvania Battalion. The family moved west to Kentucky and later Missouri. Members of the family fought on both sides of the Civil War.

The collector of these records, Clarke Dunlap, was born in Licking, Missouri, on 8 January 1929. He served in the Korean War and was employed by the Central Intelligence Agency from 1956 to 1961. He taught geography, geology, and political science at various colleges and universities and received his Ph.D. in geomorphology from Louisiana State University in 1990. He also wrote a book on using remote sensing to map the Wilderness Road his great-great-grandfather used to migrate to Kentucky in 1785.

In 1979, he was paralyzed after receiving an influenza vaccination and founded the National Liberation Front for Handicapped Civil Rights in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, for which he served as director.

Arrangement:

The collection has been arranged into the following four series:

Genealogical Records
Dunlap Family
Business Records
Maps and Land Surveys

Scope and Content Note:

The Genealogical Records series is arranged by type of document and contains family record group sheets, photocopies of marriage, death, and cemetery records; census records and tax lists; military, land transaction, and legal records.

These materials were compiled by Clarke Dunlap for his three volume histories of the Dunlap and Kofahl families. The volumes have been disassembled for preservation purposes.

The Dunlap Family series contains personal information for Clarke Dunlap, a book Dunlap wrote about using remote sensing to map out the path his ancestors took over the Wilderness Road to Kentucky, news clippings relating to the family, and photographs pertaining to his family and research on the Wilderness Road.

The series also includes a photocopy of a journal written by Samuel B. Dunlap, a Confederate soldier who served in Boyd's Battalion, 1st Missouri Artillery. He was captured at Vicksburg, paroled and exchanged, then fought in the Tennessee and Georgia campaigns. The journal was written in 1890 from notes Dunlap took during the war.

The Business Records series contains bills of sale for enslaved people and three ledgers from the Dunlap Bros. Store in Licking, Missouri, from the early 1900s.

The Maps and Land Surveys series consists of the maps and land surveys Clarke Dunlap collected while researching his family and their involvement in the Revolutionary and Civil Wars. Most of the maps are of Kentucky and Missouri.
