S. Patti Construction Company Records

ca. 1916-1976

14 cubic feet, 100 cubic feet of drawings, and oversize

Progress photographs of construction jobs in Missouri, Kansas and Alaska done by S. Patti Construction Company and associates. Also included are architectural drawings of structures for which they were the contractor.

HISTORY:

The firm of S. Patti Construction Company was founded in Kansas City by Sebastian Patti in 1915, and incorporated in 1934. Salvatore S. Patti, the son of Sebastian, graduated from the University of Kansas with a B.S. degree in Architectural Engineering (1939), and after service in the military during World War II, began an active role in the firm in 1946. Salvatore Patti assumed ownership of the company in 1952 upon the death of his father, and directed its business until the firm ended business in 1976.

S. Patti Construction Company was a general construction firm which provided virtually all the workmen for the various construction trades on its contracts rather than subcontracting portions of the job to specialized operators. During its most active years the firm was responsible for such projects as the Chevrolet Leeds Plant (ca. 1926) and subsequent additions and alterations to that structure; the De Lano School (ca. 1938); the North American Bomber Plant (ca. 1940), and its conversion to the Buick/Oldsmobile Plant (ca. 1946); the Sumner Academy in Kansas City, Kansas, a structure noted for its fine masonry work; and residential complexes such as Fairfax Hills, Twin Oaks, and President Gardens.

At times S. Patti Construction Company entered into joint ventures with other companies. Two of these ventures were Patti-Massman and Patti-McDonald. The latter constructed several projects in Alaska, and had men in that state during the Alaskan earthquake of 1964.

Offices for S. Patti Construction Company during the years covered by the collection were at 1340 Admiral Boulevard, Kansas City, Missouri.

PROVENANCE:

The Salvatore Patti Photographs, KA0034, were a gift from the General Library, UMKC on August 15, 1980. The General Library had obtained the collection as a gift from Salvatore Patti. Additionally Salvatore Patti gave accession KA0099 on July 28, 1981 and Mrs. Betty Patti gave accession 0368kc on June 18, 1986

DESCRIPTION:

The collection consists of progress photographs of construction jobs in Missouri, Kansas and Alaska done by S. Patti Construction Company and associates. The photographs, taken at various stages of the work, provide dated documentation of the construction activities for the site. Photographers for the majority of the images were Randazzo and Morrison, 805 Baltimore, Kansas City, Missouri. A few of the photographs were taken by Anderson Photo, Kansas City, Missouri. Additional photographs are oversize.

The final three folders contain text information on the jobs done by the company. Architectural drawings from the company are included in the Architectural Records Collection database.

INVENTORY:
