

Information Sheet

R Marriott, Homer Lee.
425 Memoir, ca. 1919.
 One folder, photocopies.

This collection is available at The State Historical Society of Missouri. If you would like more information, please contact us at shsresearch@umsystem.edu.

This is a memoir of a resident of Morgan County, Missouri, concerning his experiences as a soldier in World War One. Marriott served in the 110th Ammunition Train of the 35th Division and participated in the Battle of the Argonne in 1918.

This printed memoir contains a narrative account of training in the United States, transportation to the European theater, and combat, particularly at the Battle of the Argonne in 1918. Printed with a title of "Experiences of Homer Lee Mariott[sic] Soldier in the World War 1917—1919," it bears neither publication information nor a date, although it appears to have been written soon after Marriott's return to civilian life. There is a photograph of Marriott, seated in uniform, on the second page.

Marriott served in Company E, 110th Ammunition Train, 35th Division, A.E.F. His account vividly describes the confusion and terror of battle.

r488 16 October 1990 Morgan County Historical Society Loaned for photocopying

Index Cards

Argonne, Battle of the, 1918.
Camp Doniphan (Okla.).
Camp Funston (Kan.).
Marriott, Homer Lee.
Morgan County (Mo.).
United States. Army—History—World War, 1914-1918.
United States. Army. Ammunition Train, 110th.
United States. Army. Expeditionary Forces.
United States. Army. Infantry Division, 35th.
World War, 1914-1918.