Historical Note:

Philip Graham Long Sr. was born February 13, 1805, the son of Griffen Long and Sarah Graham. On January 15, 1833, he married Isabella Murphy. This is the same year he opened his tannery business in Farmington, Missouri. A monument marks the spot where the tannery stood and is located next to the Farmington Municipal Pool. Also in 1833, Long built a home for his family. It was originally of log construction and featured one room upstairs and one room downstairs with an enclosed stairwell and fireplaces. Together Philip and Isabella had ten children including William, Hugh, Frances, Bettie, Sarah, Philip, Horace, Isabella, Catherine, and Jane. The Long family was prominent in Farmington. Farmington City Hall is housed in the Long Memorial Hall Building which was named for P.G. Long's son William Dubart Long. Philip Graham Long died on February 15, 1864 and is buried in the Masonic Cemetery located on Carter and South Henry Street in Farmington.
